

Families Must Provide More Medical Care At Home, But With Little Training

More than ever, family members are required to play a major role in caring for their loved ones. But they are being asked to do increasingly complex medical tasks with little or no training. The result: Greater risk to patients and enormous avoidable stress for those family caregivers. Read more.

Source

Forbes

Display Featured Image

1

Is External

1

External URL

<https://www.forbes.com/sites/howardgleckman/2022/05/23/families-must-provide-more-medical-care-at-home-but-with-little-training/?sh=390a65ac7c08>

Utility Tile

Array