

For one dedicated home health aide, patients become family

Yanick, an aging woman living in Brooklyn was feeling down. Having to deal with multiple chronic health conditions understandably took a toll on her some days. Her home health aide of five years, Marie Dorviline, could tell that Yanick was not herself. That's when a creative idea popped into her mind—something she was sure would lift Yanick's spirits. Read More.